1. ITALIAN JUDO WRESTLING KARATE MARTIAL ARTS FEDERATION

FIJLKAM (Italian Judo Wrestling Karate Martial Arts Federation) was founded in Milan over a century ago by the Marquis Luigi Monticelli Obizzi to regulate Greco-Roman wrestling and weight lifting. Its members are non-profit associations engaged in the practice and promotion of Judo, Wrestling, Karate, Jujitsu, Aikido and Sumo, and the traditional martial arts S'Istrumpa and Capoeira.

FIJLKAM institutional mission is to organize, regulate and promote the sports overseen by the International Judo Federation (IJF), the Fédération Internationale des Luttes Associées (FILA), the World Karate Federation (WKF) and the International Sumo Federation (ISF). FIJLKAM is affiliated to all of these federations, who recognize it as their sole Italian representative.

FIJLKAM is the only federation recognized by CONI and authorized to regulate and oversee the practice and promotion of the formerly stated disciplines, and represent CONI abroad.

The Federation is also responsible for the training and on-going education of instructors and competition officials; additionally it is in charge of the selection and training of the National Teams. Its focus is on the practice, diffusion and promotion of disciplines that, although clearly distinct, are comparable and consistent with each other.

These are the sports that the IOC classifies as defense, that could be more properly classified (Enrile, et al.) as combat sports.

They involve defensive and offensive actions in balanced proportion; they are “non-repetitive” (Rudik) that is athletes do not go over the same movements in a cyclical fashion, as happens in sports like running, weightlifting, cycling or swimming. Exercises are based on proprioceptive sensations that determine spatio-temporal relations, in which one contestant counteracts the resistance opposed by the other.

Furthermore, they are situational sports; they stimulate neural activity and require excellent physical conditioning (strength, endurance, muscle elasticity, joint suppleness and flexibility, coordination, physical dexterity and reaction speed).

It is fundamental to master timing: the ability to choose quickly, in various situations, the best method to oppose the antagonist and succeed. “In combat sports, where confrontation is direct, the situation is determined by the actions of the two combatants who compete physically with the aim of winning.

In these activities, calling for continuous confrontation with an opponent, it is crucial to have a high degree of mental preparation to withstand the intimidation of the antagonist and bring out initiative, decisiveness in conduct and inventiveness in one's tactical approach.

2. L'ASI ITALIAN SOCIAL AND SPORTS ORGANIZATION

ASI, Italian Social and Sports Organizations, is one of the most important and representative sports promotion organizations and has been recognized by CONI even since it was set up in 1994.

Besides its national headquarters, ASI has got 130 territorial offices, 70 technical – sports departments and more than 5000 operators and collaborators on the national territory.

ASI gathers amateur sports associations, sports associations and cultural circles which decide to carry out their recreational and cultural activities in affiliation with ASI.

Through its central and peripheral bodies, and thanks to its organizational pattern, ASI works on the promotion and spreading of sport and of the values connected to it, and gives its contribution to the spreading (and teaching) of good sporting practices as essential elements for wellbeing and civilization.

Though the years, ASI has widened its scope and nowadays it operates with professionalism in cultural and environmental settings, is involved in social advancement and in the promotion of tourism.

ASI organizes amateur and competitive sporting events for all age groups on the whole national territory, along with championships and tournaments of all sports; it trains managers (along with specialists, sports operators and trainers) and ensures updates for them. It organizes training classes aimed at the spreading of common skills in the areas of sport, culture, free time and on a recreational level.

ASI promotes seminars and the publications aimed at encouraging a modern model of sport, capable of responding to the needs of operators and fans. It favors dialog and the development of synergies with Sports organizations such as CONI, FSN, DSA, and others such as EPS, with Governmental Institutions (the Government and Ministries), with and local institutions (Regions and Districts), with schools and companies supporting this area and favoring its growth.

All these activities are deeply rooted in the idea promoted by ASI that sport is a key to guaranteeing people's health along with their psycho-physical wellbeing, as well as to promoting social aggregation and integration processes

In a world where tangible and intangible inequalities are increasing, ASI believes in the ability inherent to cultural and sporting associations to bring the human being back to the center and to reinstate a value system where honesty, loyalty and participation are at the core.

27.City of VENICE

The name “Venezia” (Venice) and its early variants Venédia, Venétia, Venésia, Venéxia, Vinegia indicated all the territories of the pre-roman venetian folks. Venetia, is the name used in the administrative Augustean documents of the 7 A.D. Along with Istria it was part of the tenth region, the X Regio. The name was also used under the Byzantines who called the coastal region from Chioggia to Gradac “Venetikà” or, in latin, Venetia maritime.

The name came to indicate the duchy of Venice, and only later its capital. The city came to being in a later era bringing together the settlements on the islands.

A peculiarity of the latin name is that it is a plural substantive, perhaps because the city was conceived as the union of several smaller island centers who joined together, or in any case a plurality of elements.

The old documents refer to the region in the singular, “Venetia” (Venetia et Histria, Venetia Maritima), while the city was referred to in the plural: Venetiarum Civitas, Venetiarum Res Publica, Venetiarum Patriarcha.

The territory of the city of Venice is split into six administrative municipalities, and is clearly divided into the lagoon area (the historical center and the islands) and the mainland.

The historical center is located in the middle of the namesake lagoon, on a total of 118 islands, consolidated over the centuries thanks to wooden pilings, which have allowed urbanization. Some of these are collected in groups while others are more disperse. The city center is threaded by a maze of waterways that require the use of bridges to cross, and it is a pedestrian zone. The historical city, with its 797.96 hectares of surface (excluding the waterways and the biggest islands), is one of the largest historical centers of Italy and Europe.

The entire extension of the insular city, including the islands in the lagoon, like Murano and Burano, is 1688.91 hectares.

The historical city is divided into six districts or “sestiere” (plural “sestieri”): Dorsoduro, Santa Croce, San Polo, San Marco, Cannaregio and Castello.

The “sestieri” are built around the double bend of the Grand Canal, the main waterway from which a dense network of minor canals extends. There are many urbanized islands in the lagoon but some are now deserted. The largest islands (part of the municipality themselves) are Murano, Burano – renowned respectively for glass work and lace-making – Torcello, Sant’Erasmus, Pellestrina and the long and narrow Lido with its beach resorts.

The monuments of the city of Venice are found almost entirely in the historical center and the islands of the lagoon, the mainland is almost devoid of places of interest. The most famous landmark in Venice is “Piazza San Marco”, the principal square and the only one that goes by the Italian name of “piazza” as all other urban spaces in the city are called “campi” (fields). St. Mark’s Basilica dominates the square. It is golden in color and covered with mosaics about the history of Venice, along with bas-reliefs depicting the months of the year.

Above the main entrance, stand the four bronze horses of Constantinople, taken to Venice following the 4th Crusade in 1204. The church has a Greek cross plan and five large domes. The present Basilica is the third church of St. Mark, and it stands in place of the previous two that were destroyed. This version was inspired by the Church of the Holy Apostles of Constantinople (destroyed by Muslims a few years after the conquest of 1453), of which it is a sort of scaled down replica.

The interior is full of gilded mosaics that depict biblical events and allegories. Originally it was the chapel of the Doge of the Republic of Venice. Next to the Basilica is the Doge’s Palace. The two are joined by the “Porta della Carta” (Paper Gateway) that today is the exit of the Doge’s Palace Museum. Nowadays the main entrance is on the waterfront side, facing the lagoon. It was built in the 15th century with Istrian marble to be the seat of the government of the Serenissima. Before that there was a fortress that was set to fire to oust Peter IV Candiano, who had taken refuge inside during a riot.

To be seen are the Higher Council Hall (Sala del Maggior Consiglio), which for centuries was the biggest government hall in the world, the Bridge of Sighs (Ponte dei Sospiri) and the prisons, the “Piombi” (“Leads” in English).

Opposite to the Doge’s Palace stands the bell tower, Campanile di San Marco. Built in 1173 as a lighthouse, it was renovated by Bartolomeo Bon in the 15th century. On the 14th of July 1902 it fell to the ground and was completely rebuilt.

The Veronese red marble lodge (Loggetta) was built by Jacopo Sansovino. It has bas-reliefs depicting the feats of the Lion’s Republic.

Other important monuments in Venice are the Arsenal, the Basilica of Santa Maria della Salute, the Basilica of Santa Maria Gloriosa dei Frari and the synagogues of the Ghetto.

Venice is also renowned for its historical caf  s. Coffee was imported from the Ottoman Empire around 1615, and from the year 1683 caf  s started spreading throughout the city. The famous “Caff   Florian”, was opened on the 29 December 1720, in Piazza San Marco, under the arcades, and it is still open to this day. The equally illustrious “Caff   Quadri” was opened in 1775.

Venice also houses the precious Peggy Guggenheim collection. The museum exhibits masterpieces by renowned artists including: Ernst, Modigliani, Picasso, Miro, Pollock and Kandinsky.

The islands of Murano, Burano and Torcello are the most important tourist attractions of the lagoon. The Venice Lido is an enjoyable seaside resort, and home to the famous Venice Film Festival.
